CANADA USES AIR AS CONTACT MEANS

Plane Mail Service Planned from New Brunswick to Magdalen Island

Ottawa, Nov. 10—Canada today is broadening the scope of its aerial deliveries and will utilize flying ships where formerly log teams were the only means of contact with outlying sections.

From Moncton, in New Brunswick, the government will supply air mail service to the Magdalen Islands, a fishing settlement off the Atlantic Coast, it was announced today. From Rimouski on the Gulf of St. Lawrence it is planned to establish service by air to other communities that hitherto have known only dog team service.

Pelee Island in Lake Erie is another outpost to benefit from the new plans while Anticostic Island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, home of the biggest paper development in America, will also be served by air. The postoffice has just closed a contract with the Yukon Airways & Exploration Co. to deliver mail in the Yukon and other contracts for services mentioned will be closed during the current week.

Rear Admiral Installed as Commandant at Great Lakes

Great Lakes, Ill., Nov. 10—Impressive ceremonies today will attend the installation of Rear Admiral Henry J. Ziegemeier., U. S. N., as commandant of the Great Lakes Naval Training Station and of the ninth naval district.

He succeeds Capt. John F. Hines, U. S. N., who has occupied the dual post since Nov. 24, 1925.

An admiral's salute of 13 guns will boom out over Lake Michigan as the captain's pennant is lowered over the administration building, and the two star admiral flag is hoisted in its place.

Admiral Ziegemeier is a veteran of two wars, having seen active service in both the Spanish-American and World Wars. He is the 19th commandant to preside at Great Lakes.

So much more vigor

—when the system is cleansed of poisons we all have

Do you know that poisons form all the time in your system? They get into the blood stream and so rob you of the vigor, life, youth and energy you should have. Hardly anyone escapes them. Food wastes accumulate and fermentation takes place. As many as 36 of these ever-forming poisons are already known to science.

But nature has provided a natural sort of antidote. In a scientifically pure state this antidote is available to everybody under the trade name of Nujol. Nujol is a unique substance unlike anything else known to man. It cannot be absorbed by the body or any of the organs of the body. At the same time, it has an affinity for body poisons. It takes hold of them, absorbs them, and carries them out of the system safely and harmlessly. It also softens waste matter and brings about normal evacuation of the intestines. Gets rid of poisons, gets rid of food wastes, tends to heal and soothe irritated membranes. Contains no drugs or medicines. Absolutely harmless.

Nujol contains no drugs or medicine. It's in a class by itself. You can take it with perfect safety under any conditions. It won't cause gas or griping pains, or affect the stomach or kidneys.

Every corner druggist has Nujol. Make sure you get the genuine. Look for the Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle. Don't delay, get Nujol today.

CITES DANGER OF MILK IN EPIDEMICS

Dr. J. T. Gruber Tells City Board of Health Results of Toronto Meeting

An outstanding example of the dangers of diseases being carried by milk was shown by Dr. J. T. Gruber, milk and meat inspector, in his report of the meeting of milk and dairy inspectors in Toronto, Ontario, Canada the latter part of last month, before the Marion Board of Health in the office of the city health department yesterday afternoon. Dr. Gruber cited a statement made by a speaker at the meeting who said that in one case a typhoid epidemic had been caused in a western city by one man, an employe of a dairy, who had been ill with the disease and had gone back to work apparently cured after being treated by someone other than a medical doctor.

The milk supply at Toronto, Dr. Gruber said, is drawn from an area of approximately 300 miles, divided into five sections, each under the supervision of a veterinarian. Toronto, he said, uses about 60,000 gallons of milk daily received from 3,500 farms.

The milk inspector reported he had made eight inspections during the month and had granted three permits. He also reported that he had made 13 tuberculin tests during the month and had found one reactor which was shipped to Cleveland yesterday to be disposed of. Closing of the local packing plant, Dr. Gruber said, has made the shipping of all such cows to Cleveland necessary. Three new dairy barns were constructed during the month, two of which met with the requirements of the board, the inspector said.

Wrap Christmas Packages Securely And Mail Them Early Advice of Postal Men

WITH thoughts turning to Christmas an appeal for not only early mailing but careful wrapping and packing is made by postal authorities in order to insure prompt delivery. During the holiday time the volume of mail increases approximately 200 per cent., according to postal authorities, and in order to take care of the vast increase a request is made to the public to shop and mail early.

Greetings, letters and gifts should be mailed 10 days or a week before Christmas, according to distance. This will not only make it certain that they are received on or before Christmas Day but will be a great aid to the local postal employes and enable them to spend Christmas Day with their families.

All parcels must be securely wrapped or packed, using strong paper and heavy twine. Umbrellas, canes, golf sticks should be reinforced their full length by strong stripe of wood tightly wrapped and tied to withstand transportation. Hats should be packed in strong corrugated or fiber boxes and ordinary pasteboard hat boxes must be crated. Ladies' hats and stiff hats easily damaged should be marked "fragile." Cut flowers should be packed in boxes of wood or tin or corrugated boxes and wrapped in tissue to retain moisture.

Fragile Gifts

Articles easily broken or crushed must be crated or securely wrapped, using liberal quantities of excelsior and glassware, fragile toys, crockery must be packed so as to prevent the escape of particles or pieces if broken in transit. Articles likely to spoil within the time reasonably required for transportation and delivery will not be accepted for mailing. Mark perishable and use special delivery stamp to expedite delivery.

Addresses should be complete with house number and name of street, post-office box or rural route number and typed or plainly written in ink. A return card should be placed in the upper left corner of every piece of mail. No parcel may be more than 84 inches in length and girth combined. For delivery locally and in the first, second and third zones, 70 pounds is the maximum weight, in other zones 50 pounds.

Christmas Cards

Patrons sending a quantity of Christmas cards in lots of 10 or more should prepare and mail them two or three weeks in advance. Cards mailed in packs, if delivered to the postoffice or postal station in person or tied together in a bundle labeled to show that they are Christmas cards and deposited in a street letter or package box will be segregated, stamped with the date on which to be delivered and delivery effected one or two days before Christmas. Cards and gifts addressed to points within one day's travel should be mailed not later than Dec. 20; two days' travel, Dec. 18; three days', Dec. 16, and for more distant points not later than Dec. 14. Parcels and cards for local delivery should be mailed not later than Dec. 21.

The use of a special delivery stamp will insure delivery on Christmas Day or on Monday, Dec. 26, if mailed at the proper time. Uninsured parcels, eight ounces or less in weight, may be mailed in street letter or package boxes at all classified stations and branches and at such numbered stations as are designated to receive parcels. Parcels containing meat, food products, cut flowers or other perishable matter should be mailed only at the main postoffice or one of the large classified stations.

NERVOUSNESS KEPT THIS LADY A HEALTH-WRECK

Stomach Indigestion Miserable; Says Konjola Gave Her Amazing Relief.

"Oftimes, nervousness and stomach troubles go hand in hand," said The Konjola Man yesterday at the Stump & Sams Pharmacy, 121 South Main Street, Marion, where crowds of men and women are now calling daily to find out about this celebrated Konjola medicine.

MRS. E. E. LANDON

"The nervous person may not be aware of stomach trouble, but very often the stomach is disordered, and at times it is the real seat of this terrible nervousness," continued the Konjola Man. "A nervous person wakes in the morning tired and exhausted. As the day advances his strength increases and at bedtime the sufferer is usually at his best, while some persons are just a bundle of nerves all the time—the least excitement nearly drives them frantic. As a rule, constipation, headaches, melancholia, or blues, are very common, and the sufferer seems to look only on the dark side of life—these things make nervousness a dreaded ailment."

This Konjola, which The Konjola Man is introducing in Marion, has given such amazing relief in so many cases of nervous indigestion and stomach troubles, that it is declared that no suffering person can afford not to try it. Many people say Konjola seems to go at once to the very source of such misery. For instance, just a few days ago, Mrs. E. E. Landon, living on East Street, Prospect, Ohio (near Marion), made the following statement in which she told of the relief she derived by taking Konjola:

"I just feel fine now, and I think Konjola is wonderful," said Mrs. Landon. "I suffered terribly with nervousness and stomach trouble. In fact, it made little difference what I ate. I was sure to be in agony from indigestion. I would bloat up with gas, and it was almost impossible for me to sleep at nights, due to shattered nerves. I used to feel pretty bad every morning, but now, your Konjola has benefited me so much that every morning I feel fit and fine. This is because I sleep so well. And with my nervousness and indigestion gone, I just feel like I have a new hold on life. As I said, I think Konjola is wonderful, and I am glad to recommend it to help others afflicted like I was."

The Konjola Man is at the Stump and Sams Pharmacy, 121 South Main Street, Marion, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy Konjola is now being sold by all of the good druggists in every nearby town of this whole section.—Adv.

Daily Proverb—"A youth in which a single aim governs life early arrives at the harvest."

Anyway, luck breaks our way sometimes. December 4 will fall on a Sunday.

It is manifest that Detroit isn't anywhere near so moist as she thought she was.

A candidate for city councilman in Evarts, Kentucky, killed his opponent, election day. The Mexican method must be spreading.

A writer says newspapers were braver when they were poorer. Sure. That's the way of the world. Anybody can be brave when he has everything to gain and nothing to lose.

H. G. Wells says he found Boston refined and genteel, and sensitive beyond his comprehension. H. G. shouldn't have joshed her about her sacred codfish and her baked beans.

The councilmanic election of the latest mayor of Indianapolis goes to show that the Hoosier capital has not yet wholly recovered from what has been ailing it for some time.

"The self-made man," says Sir Herbert Morgan, "is one of the most deplorable creations of civilization." We assume that what Sir Herbert means is that he's usually a bore and quite often a liar.

The Chicago School Journal intimates that the head of the city government up there has mistaken "savage egotism" for intense Americanism. It's simply amazing how heartless people can become!

Now we are told that the Princess Ileana, in addition to graces of mind and manner, is pronounced by the director of the Roumanian State Physical Culture academy one of the most perfectly developed girls physically in all Europe. Can Marie be figuring on an entry for the marriage market?

Anne Nichols says writing "Abie's Irish Rose" was as much fun as eating an ice-cream cone, which, in a way, may explain its wonderful drawing power. Its fun is of the kind which appeals to the ice-cream cone taste.

A Chicago columnist wants to know what has become of the housewife who used to make her own mincemeat and kept a lot of soup stock on hand. It's just next to impossible not to feel sorry for the big city people who know no other than the hand-to-mouth existence they delude themselves into believing is living.

Michael Faherty, one of the commission of fifteen Chicagoans sent across by Mayor Thompson to study London's underground railway system, is telling the Britishers that the Hon. Bill Hale "is all that Lincoln was in his day." The thing is growing funnier day by day.

Naturally, a certain amount of gush is to be anticipated in reference to brides, but we wish the newspapers reporting the latest marriage of the one-time Millicent Rogers had refrained from calling her beautiful or had not run her picture. The combination is too much for our credulity.

No Aid for Wets.

In defeat of the Marshall bill by the voters Tuesday the public has been led to construe it as a rebuke to the Anti-Saloon league when, as a matter of fact, it is a direct slap at roadside courts and hi-jacking "speed cops" by the motor-riding public of the state.

Had it not been for the Ohio Automobile association and its thousands of members throughout the state, particularly in the rural sections, the Marshall bill quite likely would have been ratified, and speed traps would have found their way to the side of every road in Ohio.

Ohio has 1,350,000 passenger car owners, many of whom have been arrested and hailed before these pseudo courts, and feel, as a result, that they have not only been unjustly prosecuted, but have a legitimate grievance against this type of law enforcement, so-called.

Of course, any measure calculated to be of any material aid to the dry cause usually suffers defeat in Ohio's four largest cities. That is to be expected. It is nothing new.

But analyzing the state rural vote of Tuesday against the Marshall bill one is constrained to admit that it wasn't the so-called "wet" element in the country that voted against the proposal. There is no "wet" element in rural Ohio; just men and women who dislike to be shanghaied, and they turned thumbs down on the scheme, voting "no" overwhelmingly.

In the old days the highways of Ohio were dotted thick with rural motor cops trying to earn a little easy coin by "pinching" motorists, whether they were going at an excessive rate of speed, or whether they were observing the statutes in every respect. And once "pinched" by one of these fly-by-night officers, the motorist had no recourse except to pay the hijacking fine which the road-side justice of the peace assessed.

That is why the Ohio Automobile association fought the bill, and that is why, to a large extent, it was defeated. Ohio automobile drivers have reached the point where they are no longer content to let these road-side courts wax fat for no reason at all. And rightly so.

The Red Cross Campaign.

The drive for a Red Cross membership enrollment of 2,500 in this county and a fund of $10,000 with which to meet the expenses to be incurred during the coming year is already on and will be continued over Sunday. Readers of this newspaper have already been made familiar with the plan of campaign, and should be prepared to meet the various canvassers with ready responses when approached by them.

References to the splendid local work of the Red Cross have so repeatedly been made in our news columns that all our readers by this time must be familiar with the good work the local organization has done and is doing. In a general way they know, also, of the wonderful record of accomplishment made by the American Red Cross. They know that wherever calamity has occurred on land, whether it has been near at hand or far away, the American Red Cross has ever followed closely in its wake rendering aid and comfort, but there are hundreds of cases in which this great organization has rendered splendid service which, without a doubt, have slipped the memories of our readers. The explanation of this is easy. The organization has been active in such a myriad of calamities and misfortunes that it is beyond the powers of man mentally to keep track of them. We had this brought home to us, recently, when we came upon a list of the more serious calamities the world suffered during the first half of the present year.

From January 1 to July 1, the list showed, there were twenty-one earthquakes, nine great snow storms, thirty-eight cyclones and tornadoes, thirty-seven floods and six volcanic eruptions, all of which were marked by life loss. During the 181 days of the period there were 136 days on which serious calamities occurred. It can not be said that the following summary is complete, but it is known that in these calamities at least 6,371 persons were killed and 9,849 were injured, while four towns were entirely destroyed and 66,845 houses destroyed or damaged.

The first catastrophe of the year, the earthquake in California, came on January 1—a decidedly inauspicious beginning for the year. February 14 a great earthquake occurred in Bosnia and Herzegovinia, and in the same month the most serious earthquake of the period occurred in Japan. The recent earthquake in Japan is still fresh in the memories of readers, no doubt.

Probably the greatest material losses were suffered as a result of the floods of the Mississippi river and a number of its tributaries, the economic losses resulting therefrom being estimated at $300,000,000. And the record of the latter half of the year is not widely different from that of the first, the great calamities of the second half beginning with the floods in Saxony, early in July, which resulted in 160 deaths and caused a monetary loss of 80,000,000 marks, and the long list of cyclones, tornadoes, earthquakes and floods which came between the Saxony floods and those just suffered in the New England states entailing great life loss and property losses of approximately $50,000,000.

And in all these disasters the Red Cross functioned with results that intensified the popular regard for Red Cross disaster relief preparedness and efficiency.

It seems to us that there is none of major years who wouldn't want to be enrolled in such an organization, none who can afford not to be enrolled. It is a duty which one owes to himself as well as all humanity to be thus enrolled; it should be as well a pleasure.

We very sincerely hope for the complete success of the Red Cross campaign.

New York City's birth rate has dropped twenty-five per cent. in the last fifteen years, while the death rate has declined but fifteen per cent. during the same period. Still, there's little occasion to anticipate a retrograde movement in her population. Those who have gone there, and not those born there, have made New York what she is, and she will continue to grow in the same way.

A German scientist says the Mississippi floods and the volcanic eruptions mark the beginning of a period which will make the earth a Garden of Eden from the poles to the equator. In a recent raid by prohibition agents up in Chicago eleven merchants were arrested in a short section of one street and 300 stills which were carried in their stocks for sale were confiscated. Poems That Live.

FROST.

The hour is late. The night with noiseless wing
Has settled on the houses, and the cold
Creeps through the whistling crannies, overbold,
Intrusive, stealthy-footed, withering.
The stars are dark. The trees where used to sing
The lusty life of summer now uphold
Only abandoned nests, their love tales told.
The fog clutches the throat and leaves a sting.
The fire that cheered the house is burning low,
Its fading embers crumbling, blackened, spent
And scattered by the East wind's snarling breath.
The marrow in chilled bones feels scarce a glow
The clock speaks huskily. The veil is rent.
Life's last flame hisses in the grasp of death.

Evil Thoughts Produce Misery.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Most of the time, when the relation of mind and body is discussed, I place particular emphasis on the mentally depressing effects of bad health. It is easy to show that overeating, constipation, getting too tired and living in contaminated air are sufficient causes for loss of sleep, bad dreams and lowered vitality.

But no honest man can deny that worry, anxiety, fear, discontent, envy, hatred and evil thoughts will drive sleep from the eyelids and turn the quiet of the night into a very hell of misery. Where is there a person past thirty who has not passed many a night like this?

Constant repetition of experiences of this sort will undermine the strongest body. That is why unhappiness is the chief enemy of the human race.

Our Christian Science friends are in possession of a great blessing. They have learned that fear of one variety and another is at the root of most of our troubles.

But they have no monopoly of this truth and its practical application. It is not a secret revealed only to them. It is a fact that has been in possession of mankind since philosophers began to muse and wise men communed together.

"As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." A great man of old said that, and lesser men have repeated it daily. Everybody knows its truth.

Knowing it, why do we not act upon its implied direction? Why do we permit ourselves to think bad thoughts and to have our souls overflow with bitterness?

In my opinion, there is far more good in this world than bad. The natural tendency of men is to do right and to be kind. Fear of one individual for another one, is very likely founded on misunderstanding. Charles Lamb said: "You can't hate a man you know." When you learn to know him you find him to be good.

If you are harboring unkind thoughts about another, why not go to that person in perfect frankness and "have it out" with him? Several times in my life I have done this and afterward my reconciled friend and I laughed at ourselves because we found that, after all, there was nothing between us worth fighting or grieving over.

A colt can be coaxed to nose the locomotive to discover it is a thing which need not be feared. A wild animal can be tamed by kindness.

Are we more stupid than the colt, or more fierce than the grizzly bear?

The preacher can make any application he pleases of the sermon I have given you today. My purpose in preaching it is not to get you into the heaven after earth, but to try to make this earth a heaven of health, vigor and long life.

I want you to have happiness in order that you may have health and contentment of mind so you will have the consciousness of physical strength and endurance. By right thinking you will multiply your physical usefulness and add years to your life.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

M. G. K. Q—Will a little common baking soda after meals help gases in the system?

A—If you watch your diet and avoid constipation, you will not have to resort to the taking of baking soda. Too much of the latter would not be wise. For further information send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

B. M. R. Q—What should a girl aged nineteen, five feet six inches tall, weigh?

A—She should weigh about 130 pounds.

M. F. Q—What would you advise for gaining weight?

J. F. Q—I have many small veins under the skin on my face. What can be done, and what is the cause?

Editorial Comment.

AN UNREPRESENTATIVE LEGISLATURE.

The National Conference on the Reduction of Crime, which assembled last week in Washington, heard its chairman praise the Missouri crime commission as a genuine leader in the present movement for more effective control of the criminal classes; and yet in reviewing the effort to improve the criminal laws in the various states the same speaker felt obliged to declare that "the most discouraging and reactionary legislation of all was undoubtedly that of Missouri."

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat, in noting this criticism, says: "and we must regretfully confess that it is criticism that is deserved." At the last session of the Missouri legislature, the crime commission made a number of excellent suggestions, not one of which was adopted, although the press of the state gave them a practically unanimous support. The proposals went into the hands of reactionary committees, and no opportunity was allowed for their fair discussion on the floor. The chairman of the Washington conference says sarcastically concerning this legislature that "it did, however, make it grand larceny to steal a dog."

Our own Ohio legislature has been slow to fall in with the movement to bring criminal law into accord with present conditions of crime, but we have had nothing like the Missouri crime commission to assemble the evidence that more effective laws are needed and to lay the evidence authoritatively before the public. The time is coming, however, when Ohio criminal law must be made adequate to the effective protection of our citizens against the criminal classes.—Columbus Dispatch.

TWO INCONCLUSIVE ARGUMENTS.

Dr. Will Durant and Dr. Bertrand Russell had a debate in New York the other day on the subject, "Is Democracy a Failure?"

Durant took the affirmative and maintained that democracy conceived as a government of, by and for the people is a failure because educated people are disqualified for office and only those who serve the "machine" can advance themselves. Dr. Russell said that his test for democracy is a simple one. "Are democratic countries of the world, on the whole, happier, more intelligent, more progressive than others?" And he asserted that on this broad basis he does not see how anybody can question the fact that the United States and Great Britain are among the happiest countries of the world.

Both these main opposing arguments are interesting, but neither seems conclusive.

It is pretty well proven by the records that if educated people are disqualified for office in a democracy it is because they disqualify themselves by declining to take an active, aggressive interest in the political and public affairs of the nation. A few do go into public life, and, other things being equal, they become the great state and national leaders. There is no reason why educated people do not have their full share in the management of public affairs in a free land except their own refusal to do so.

Dr. Russell's test, if fairly applied, ought to be applied to all countries undertaking to maintain a democratic form of government. If that is done, his argument is of rather dubious strength, because there are lands in Europe and America where it unquestionably has fallen down badly.—Detroit Free Press.

Relativity for Everybody.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

"Two friends and I had an argument about momentum. Suppose we stand on a fast-moving object; I say I can throw faster throwing forward, and the other two say I can throw further backward; and if that applies the same to shooting two guns in opposite directions from a fast-moving object, which one would shoot further? And, another thing: they say if a man jumps from a moving aeroplane, he will fall down in a straight line as soon as he leaves the aeroplane, and I say it is impossible because the man is moving with the aeroplane and his momentum would carry him a certain distance forward while falling. I think this would make an interesting article. —Frank Buschtail, Bartlett, Illinois."

If you think as straight as you have been doing in this matter, you may eventually undertake the Einstein theory. Your idea of momentum is correct. Two motions do not neutralize each other unless they are exactly equal and in direct opposition. If a body in motion receives another impulse in the same direction, its velocity with reference to a fixed point will be increased by the amount of the added velocity. If the new motion is exactly opposite to the first, the resulting velocity will be equal to the difference between the two. Suppose the second motion to be swifter than the first, to which it is opposed; then the resulting velocity will be a minus quantity, that is to say it will be backward with reference to the first motion, but its amount will still be the numerical difference between the two. Thus, if the first motion had a velocity of twenty feet per second, and the second—opposed to the first—a velocity of twenty-five feet per second, then the new, or combined velocity would be minues five feet per second. In other words, the moving body would have its original motion entirely neutralized, and receive a motion of five feet per second in the opposite direction.

For a vivid illustration, suppose two automobiles to meet head one, one traveling with a speed of twenty miles per hour, and the other with a speed of forty miles per hour. Let them be of equal weight and assume the road to be as smooth as ice, and that the two meeting machines are not broken by the collision but coalesce like putty. Then the result of the collision will be to neutralize the whole of the motion of the slower machine, and half the motion of the faster one, and the combined mass—weight—will move backward with reference to the slower and forward with reference to the faster at a speed of ten miles per hour.

You see, that in considering momentum, and not merely velocity, we have to take into consideration the mass of the moving body or bodies. Momentum is measured by the product of the mass multiplied by the velocity. The momentum of a ten-pound cannon ball traveling 2,000 feet per second, would be 20,000 units, and that of a twenty-pound ball traveling at the same speed would be 40,000 units.—Copyright, 1927.

Seeing America First.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

Many Americans who obey the slogan to "See America First" are taking winter vacations in tropical America. Since the Panama canal zone is "America" because the Stars and Stripes float over it, these visitors carry out their patriotic purpose while enjoying the delights of perpetual summe, as they touch at the ports of the countries which their ships visit on their cruises.

The exotic flavor of a trip to Banana land lingers in the memory. The fascination of a Latin-American civilization, the charm of Jamaica and the magnitude of America's accomplishment in tearing the two continents asunder for the commerce of the world, will come pleasantly to mind in after years.

Cruises of some three or four weeks are provided for those who would escape the ice and snow and enjoy aboard ship accommodations such as only leading hotels supply. In the lands visited the range of temperature is so small that these countries that rim the Caribbean or the smiling islands on its bosom deserve to be known as the true temperate zone.

Besides the canal zone, there are picturesque trip to Antigua, ruined by an earthquake about the time George Washington took command of the American armies at Cambridge; up the Roventazon valley to San Jose and Cartago, and for the more daring an aeroplane trip up the Magdalena river of Colombia.

One follows in the paths of the pirates when visiting Cartagena and Panama City or sailing over Port Royal, the "wickedest city on earth," sunk in the harbor of Kingston, Jamaica.

A side trip which every country provides, so great is the interest of travelers, is to a banana plantation. Here one sees thousands of acres of the plants, each bearing one bunch of the all-food fruit. This "tree" is the largest in the world with no part of its woody trunk above ground.—Copyright, 1927.

TAX RATE IS BEING FIGURED BY AUDITOR

Schedule Expected To Be Finished Within Next Week, Official Says

With the special tax levy proposals out of the way and the special tax levies voted, work of compiling Marion county's tax rate schedule for 1927 taxes is now under way with the work of being completed within the next week, County Auditor Earl E. Thomas stated today.

Although considerable preliminary work has been done with the rates during the last few weeks, it was impossible to complete the schedule definitely until after the vote on the courthouse improvement proposal, the city sewer extension proposal and the Montgomery School district special levy.

Had the courthouse proposal been approved by the voters, an extra levy assessed against all property in the county would have been required, and the sewer improvement project would have meant another levy on city property. Both of these proposals were defeated, so that the county and city levies will not be affected.

Levy Authorized

In the Montgomery school district, voters authorized a three mill special levy for school operating expenses during the next three years. This will be added to the regular taxes in parts of the several townships comprising the district.

Although the tax schedule is only partly completed, Auditor Thomas states that the figures compiled thus far indicate that there will be no marked change in comparison with the rates in effect during the last tax year.

The tax rates are fixed by the county budget commission, which consists of Auditor Thomas, County Treasurer J. E. Messenger and Prosecuting Attorney Frank Wiedemann.

Care of Babies

This baby has never had a day's sickness and never a cross or fretful spell that lasted an hour. And what do you suppose is responsible for this healthy, happy condition? Not diet, for he has eaten just about anything and everything a child could eat. Not drugs, for he has not been dosed with opiates; he has never had a drop of paregoric. Nor has his sensible mother ever made him taste castor oil. Yet his nerves are sound and his little bowels are strong, and when he does seem the least restless or wakeful, or out of sorts—or likely to be—his mother has him all serene again in ten or fifteen minutes!

The secret of this complete freedom from the many ills and upsets so common to infants? Plain old-fashioned Castoria. A million and more mothers swear by Castoria, and no wonder! A few drops and an approaching fever, colic, diarrhea or constipation seems to vanish in thin air. Castoria is purely vegetable; that is why physicians tell parents they may use it freely with children of any age—the youngest infant. And how they love the taste!

One word of warning; get the pure, real Castoria. Fletcher's Castoria is the original. It is the kind doctors specify. And with every bottle comes a book on "Care and Feeding of Babies" that is worth its weight in gold to any mother or prospective mother. So, remember; tell your druggist you wish Fletcher's Castoria.

MEMORIAL BODY TO MEET FRIDAY NIGHT

Contract for Planting Trees and Shrubbery To Be Let at Session

Contract for planting of trees and shrubbery on the grounds of the Harding Memorial and for completing other landscaping work will be let at a meeting of the executive committee of the Harding Memorial Association to be held here Friday night, Hoke Donithen, member of the committee, stated today.

Plans for work on the grounds drawn up by A. D. Taylor, Cleveland landscape architect, have been approved and a number of bids for the contract are now on file with the committee. Awarding of the contract was scheduled at a meeting held several weeks ago but action was postponed when it was found that a few changes in the plans were necessary. These changes have been made by Mr. Taylor and approved by the committee, Mr. Donithen stated.

Work on interior construction work at the memorial tomb is now under way but sufficient progress has not been made to enable officers of the memorial association to plan for entombment of the bodies of President and Mrs. Harding. Arrangement for the entombment ceremony will probably not be made for several weeks, Mr. Donithen indicated today.

Home-made Supply of Fine Cough Syrup

Better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily prepared.

If you combined the valuable properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real healing power as there is in this home-made syrup, easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup, or clarified honey, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the throat tickle and heals the irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and it is splendid for bronchitis, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, which has been used for generations to break severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

This little daily dose of Kruschen is like a charge of new ambition, new energy that is sent flowing through your veins to every tissue, muscle and cell.

But there's no mystery about Kruschen—it keeps you in perfect trim because it stimulates the liver and kidneys gently but surely to thorough performance of their duties. It frees your system of all waste matter that collects to clog your insides and poison your blood stream. It primes every fibre of your being with tingling vitality.

Get a bottle of Kruschen Salts today—It's not a cathartic—just the best system regulator in the world. Add two tablets to your hot water—coffee or tea—tomorrow morning and if at the end of the week you are not a confirmed member of the happy Kruschen family numbering millions the world over we'll lose our bet. Only 60c for 60 tablets at Bradley's Drug Store or five drug-gists everywhere. "It's the little daily dose that does it."—Adv.

No longer dreaded by thousands of women

Doctor's Discovery Successful

AN eminent physician has shown to thousands of expectant mothers just how to be free from much suffering during expectancy and at childbirth.

Dr. Holmes' discovery, "Mother's Friend," relieves the tension on muscles and tissues as month follows month. Finally, it makes child-birth a joy!

Three generations of mothers have praised Mother's Friend. Mrs. Laura Hendrix, Gracemont, Okla., writes: "I used Mother's Friend with all my babies and I think it is the grandest help that has ever been discovered for expectant mothers."

Start using Mother's Friend tonight—the sooner the better, and write for free booklet on "Things to Know Before Baby Comes" (sent in plain envelope). Mother's Friend is sold by all drug stores. Bradfield Regulator Co., Desk 22, Atlanta, Ga.

Sally's Shoulders

SALLY JEROME, pretty and [illegible] the mainstay of her family in the absence of her father, who [illegible] live with her mother. [illegible] JEROME enjoys ill health, [illegible] does the housework morning, and office work for MR. [illegible] afternoons. BEAU and [illegible] her sister and brother, [illegible] nothing to help her [illegible] home.

[illegible] below the Jeromes [illegible] SLOAN, a "dancin' [illegible] who wants Sally to marry [illegible] keep on working. But the [illegible] man who interests her is JOHN NYE, whose real estate office [illegible] the hall from Mr. [illegible] Millie is his secretary [illegible] becomes infatuated with [illegible] Millie, however, prefers a [illegible] salesman named DAVIDSON. Davidson is secretly in love with Sally, and Millie is jealous of her.

But when Millie becomes ill with appendicitis it is John Nye who sends for her room at the hospital and sends her flowers. During this time Sally works for John Nye and later when Mr. Peevey retires from business Nye offers Sally a permanent place in his office. But she refuses it and goes into the wayside inn business with her AUNT EMILY JEROME.

Beau marries Mabel Wilmot, and he and all the rest of the family move out to the inn, although Aunt Emily protests against their coming. Sally, who is kept busy paying off the money Beau "borrows" from the bank where he works, regrets their coming, too, although she is glad to have her mother where she can look after her.

The wayside inn business does not thrive, and finally Aunt Em hires a jazz band, and Sally puts on a dainty little "shimmy" dance. The combination makes a hit, and the business "pops up." John Nye comes one day to ask Sally to work for him once more, but Sally refuses again. Millie has told her that John Nye laughed about all the extra jobs she did for him and she believes Millie. She decided to forget him and asks Ted Sloan to stay to supper with her and Millie and Davidson one Saturday night.

Now Go on with the Story

CHAPTER I.

THE dinner guests who filled Aunt Em's brightly-lighted rooms that Saturday night had a rare treat.

For not only did Sally and Ted dance three times— and they were really good—but Davy Davidson got up and sang some of the songs made famous by Nick Lucas. Like most Welshmen, he had a beautiful, deep voice, and some of the more sentimental diners who had flasks concealed in their hip pocket or under the edge of the tablecloth had tears in their eyes when he finally sat down.

The last song he sang was the song that Sally had heard John Nye whistling on that day nearly a year ago when she had noticed him for the first time—"High—high—high, up on the hill—"

Her deep shadowy eyes were wistful as she watched him come back to the little table in the private dining room. So wistful that Davy—who couldn't believe that she wasn't in love with him—was sure of it at last.

He reached for her hand under the table, and Sally thrust his violently away from her and got up.

"Come on, Ted, let's go out and get a breath of air," she said to her red-headed dancing partner, who was just beginning his dessert of cherry pie.

He sprang up, and together they went out into the cool, darkly green depths of Aunt Em's garden.

But Sally knew every inch of the place by heart and she found some straw cushions in the backyard where she and Aunt Em had sat doing their weekly mending that morning.

"I can't stand that Davidson man," said Sally with a shudder as they sat down. She put her head back against the trunk of the old willow tree behind her, and looked up at the moon.

Instantly she felt Ted's arm going around her shoulders and he edged closer to her on the grass.

"Hands off!" said Sally, crisply. "I didn't come out here to neck, Ted."

But plainly Ted had thought hopefully that that was exactly what she had come for. . . . In his simple and short experience that was what girls usually left a brightly-lighted place and went out into the darkness with a man for. As usual, Sally baffled him by not doing the expected thing.

"Well, what did you come for then?" he asked sulkily, "to look at the moon?"

He meant that for a mild joke. It was unthinkable to him that anyone should want to look at a moon. A good automobile—a pretty girl—a peppy show—those were the things that young Mr. Sloan considered worth looking at. Certainly a moon was nothing to fire cannons about. Not in his estimation!

"Yes, to look at the moon—partly," answered Sally, coolly. "And partly to get away from Millie's Davidson. I can't bear him—" Her voice trailed off as she thought of the other night when he had kissed her so impatiently, and with such hard eagerness.

Then she remembered something else that had happened that night. Something that she had been turning over and over in her mind all week—the thing that Millie had said to her: "Even Johnny had to laugh about all the funny things you did for him."

For the thousandth time she wondered how he had come to tell Millie about the sandwiches she had brought him when he missed his lunch, the flowers she had put on his desk one morning, the pencils she had sharpened for him. In the silvered darkness she flushed with shame and humiliation, remembering those things. How she wished now that she never had done them for him!

"After all, Teddy's the only man who really treats me decently," she said to herself. "And I treat him like the dirt under my feet—it's pretty mean, isn't it?"

She turned her head and looked at him. He was looking at her and his face was very close to hers. His shoulder touched hers, and through the thin linen of his shirt she could feel that he was trembling.

"Sally," he said slowly, huskily. Even in the dim light she could see the sharp lines of longing that were in his face that was so cheerful and boyish most of the time.

"Sally, don't you know I'm crazy about you?"

"Are you?" asked Sally. "Honest, for sure." She moved away from him the least bit.

"Honest for sure!" She could tell that he meant every syllable of it, and more. "Do you think I'd get up and dance every night like a jumping Jack—make a doggoned fool of myself—for anyone but you?—Do you?—Not on your ballroom socks!"

He covered her hand, that lay between them on the grass, with one of his. "Not on your precious young life!" he repeated, and put his arm tight around her. "But I'd do anything for you. Anything you asked me to!"

He drew her head down to his shoulder, and leaned over, looking down at her. Sally knew—as every girl knows accurately at such a time—that he was going to kiss her.

"Why should I care," she thought. "He really likes me—and no one else does—why should I care?"

His head bent lower—

Suddenly a light flashed into their faces, and then swerved away from them. A long touring car had rounded the corner of the house and had come to a standstill in the gravel-sweep beyond the lilac bushes.

Sally and Ted moved apart as a man got out of the car and started toward them, his quick feet crunching in it nosily.

"He's coming over here," murmured Ted, and just then the man spoke to them.

He asked one single word: "Millie?" It was John Nye's voice.

Too astonished to more, Sally could not even raise her voice to answer him. It was Ted who replied.

"No—it's Sally and me!" He jumped to his feet and held out his hand. Something in his voice told Sally that he was glad that John Nye had found them here together, their arms about each other. He had been jealous of John Nye ever since that night when he had come upon them in the little private dining room.

"O, I see," Nye answered quietly. "I see. Good night."

And then he swung about and went straight back to the long car that gleamed and shone under the moon. He got in, started it, and was off to a racing start. The pebbles showered about the wheels as they sped away down the drive.

"He didn't even ask where Millie was," said Sally dully, when he had gone. "Wasn't that the funniest thing you ever saw—the way he turned around and went without going into the house?"

Ted dropped down beside her again. "Yes, but let's not waste a perfectly good night and a hundred-candle-power moon talking about John Nye and Millie. . . . Come here, woman, I'm going to show you what a real kiss is like!" He was very cock and sure of himself.

• • •

But the spell of the moon and the summer night was gone for Sally—broken by the sound of a man's voice, saying seven short words into the darkness. She got up and slowly drew her hands away from Ted's hands that tried to hold her.

"No, I'm going in," she said, "and dance once more—just for the fun of it."

"I'll go with you," Ted put in eagerly.

She shook her head.

"Oh, no, you'll never dance in there with me again!" she declared firmly. "Now that I know how you feel about it, do you think I'd let you? Do you think I'd let you humiliate yourself for me? Not—as you would say, Ted—on your ballroom socks!"

She left him and went back to the little dining room where Millie and Davidson were sitting in silence at the table. Davidson was looking angry and ruffled and Millie seemed to be on the verge of tears.

That night after he was gone, Sally heard her sobbing to herself in her room.

"I could cry, myself, to think of John Nye finding me all wrapped up in Ted's arms—I'm sure he saw me," said Sally to her bright reflection in the mirror.

Then she decided that she was glad because he had come upon them there together.

"It showed him that I didn't do all those nice things for him because I was in love with him," she told herself with an energetic nod of her head. "He'll think, now, that I'm wild about Ted."

The thought gave her a certain painful pleasure.

• • •

That night Mabel's son, Beauregard, Jr., was born in Bethlehem hospital.

Sally drove her there at 2 in the morning in Aunt Emily's comfortable car. Beau followed in his own ramshackle red one. And at 4 he was a proud father.

Two weeks later Mabel brought her baby home, and Sally took upon herself an entirely new job. She became a sort of second mother to the tiny new bundle of pink, blossomy flesh that was Beauregard, Jerome, Jr.

COOKING SCHOOL ECHOES

Fried

OYSTERS

the elusive "sea taste" retained

Select large oysters. Wash them, sprinkle with salt and pepper and dip first in bread crumbs, then in beaten egg and again in bread crumbs. Place in a wire basket and drop into deep Crisco heated until it browns a cube of bread in 40 seconds. Fry until nicely browned. Drain on paper. Serve hot with tomato sauce or catsup.

The real "ocean flavor" of the oyster is a delicate, elusive flavor—oysters must be fried in a "delicate" fat. I prefer Crisco for frying oysters, because as Crisco has no taste or odor of itself, it allows real oyster flavor "to come out." Oysters fried in Crisco are a crisp, golden brown outside—tender and digestible inside.

To test your cooking fat—taste it.
Crisco's sweet flavor will astonish you.

Have You Acid Scalp?

If your hair won't keep the simplest wave for several days, there is probably too much acidity. A condition that causes hair to be stubbornly straight and stringy, and to lack all lustre. Acid scalp.

From the hour you check this excessive acidity your hair will act and appear very different. It will arrange easily in any style that becomes, for it will have lovely softness, and all the sheen all healthy hair normally has. Danderine will neutralize the acid, and actually dissolve every particle of dandruff scale. Your hair won't need anything else to keep it fresh, wholesome, and free from the least objectionable faint that is to often noticed in otherwise fastidious women.

Danderine sells for only thirty-five cents a tiny drugstore, and as only a few drops on comb or towel will do the work, a bottle lasts for weeks!—Adv.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

Tomorrow will be Friday and I am glad of it. It snowed last night and I was glad of that, but not enough to slayride on, but enough so that Feeble had a handful of it to put down my neck when I was setting milking the cow and I jumped so that the cow kicked but missed the pail, which is about the first time that has happened, but I fell off the stool trying to save it.

I got up and just looked at her, whilst the bunch stood around to see what I was going to do. I told her I wisht she was my sister, and she stuck her nose almost against mine and asted me why, and Jubilee was so excited he was barking and the Lost Bag of Tripe was so hopeful that I was going to git in trouble he was almost grinning in my face. "Because," I said, "if you was my sister, I would land on you like this," and I gave the Lost Bag of Tripe a slap across the face that made him stagger, and Jubilee was in the way so he fell over him. When he was on his hands and feet getting up Feeble said, "If you ever landed on me like that I would get back at you like this," and she put one foot against the high part of the Lost Bag of Tripe and gave him a push that sent him skidding on his face right behind the cow, and he had to roll over before he could get up, or she would have kicked him.

The bunch hollered and laughed so loud that my aut came running out, and all she found was me milking and the Lost Bag of Tripe trying to scrape some of the dirt off of himself and Feeble looking at him crosseyed. She took the Lost Bag of Tripe in the house to help him wash up, which is a thing she likes to do, and Feeble went along.

When I went in she was telling my grandfather that she would bet he was as limber as any of us boys. She said she bet he could bend over and touch the floor without bending his knees, and just as I got in he was trying it. My mother was going in with the pancakes and Feeble made out like she was in the way and she said: "Oh excuse me!" and she jumped out of my mothers' way and bumped against the high part of my grandfather so hard that he done a nose dive under the table. Then she helped him up and brushed him off and said it was all her fault. If she had said it wasn't he might have said it was, but when she said it was he couldn't argue with her, and she looked crosseyed at me.

My mother asted her to have some pancakes with us, and she did. My mother was supprized. She only asted her to be polite.

Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

LILLIAN SPEAKS HER MIND

"THIS isn't a time for delicate womanly shyness," Lillian reminded me as my voice faltered and died. "But never mind. I can finish your sentence as well as you could have done. 'And to complicate matters'—Dicky is behaving like a coyote with the croup because of Phil Veritzen."

I opened my lips for a half-hearted abashed protest, but she gave me no opportunity for speech.

"For my part I'm glad he is," she said, "although he has a colossal crust to get sore at anything you may choose to do. He certainly handed you the freedom of the city, also the keys when he fell for that stunt of Grace Draper's and the poisoned drink she tried to slip him, pretending that you were the person responsible. I know, dear," her voice softening as I threw out my hand with a passionate protesting gesture, "it's pretty raw to recall that miserable business to you, but I know you as well as if I'd strung all your two hundred odd bones together. That Puritan conscience of yours is beginning to get hungry, and you're going to try to feed it if somebody doesn't hobble you. And you can bet your last centime on the fact that your old side kick is ready with the hobble rope."

She stopped, drew a long breath and grinned at me. But I knew that there was deadly seriousness behind her smile.

"The Dicky-bird hasn't served out half his term yet, and he isn't earning any parole for good behavior, either," she continued. "If I don't miss my guess, and I've known him man and boy for twenty year, he's just starting on one of his artistic admiration sprees with Eleanor Lincoln as the subject of his sympathetic souse."

I winced, because she had voiced a conviction of my own—one which was causing me more uneasiness than I had supposed my bruised sensibilities were capable of feeling.

"For my part," she went on, "I'm tickled pink and all the other colors that he's doubling for the Scriptural behemoth whenever he thinks of Philip Veritzen. Let him keep right on with that apochryphal stunt. It will do him a world of good. And if you dare to weaken, I'll never speak to you again, so help me Allah and Mohammed his prophet!"

I laughed weakly at her vehemence, and my protest was equally ineffective.

"But, Lillian, you surely do not mean that you think I ought to encourage Mr. Veritzen in—"

"Wh's talking about encouraging him?" she said with a malicious grin. "You won't need to do any encouraging. All I'm asking you to do is to sit pretty and not heave too many paving stones at dear old Phil. You may have to bounce an occasional brickbat off his bean if he gets too attentive, but do it judicially, dearie, give him a sweet smile at the same time you limber up your throwing muscles."

She rose from her seat and put an encouraging hand upon my shoulder.

"Buck up, old dear," she said. "I never steered you wrong yet, did I?"

"Indeed no," I returned fervently and with truth.

"Well, then, just go along on the supposition, that I haven't suddenly become affected with senility. I tell you there's only one way to deal with the Dicky-bird and that's to make him fully realize the time-worn saw about sauce for the goose and for the gander."

Doctor Found What is Best for Thin, Constipated People

W. B. Caldwell M D
AT AGE 83

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of his 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875)' he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in his private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year.

Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have gotten many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us that it helped them when everything else failed.

Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Keep a bottle in your home,—where many live someone is sure to need it quickly.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.—Adv.

How A TON OF QUININE conquered malaria on the Mississippi

DOWN through 7 states swept the Mississippi flood, leaving 350,000 homeless in its wake. Immediately came the dread fear of contagious disease—malaria, smallpox, typhoid.

Then—quickly, efficiently—the Red Cross launched the most comprehensive disease-prevention program ever undertaken in a domestic disaster. A ton of quinine was used to battle malaria; nearly half a million inhabitants were vaccinated against smallpox, or immunized against typhoid fever.

With the result that less sickness was suffered than in normal times!

As always, the Red Cross was ready—thanks to the ungrudging support of the American people. Now the Red Cross must prepare for inevitable future disasters.

A black and white calf collar and bands of the calf on the cuffs give this black kasha coat an air of distinction. Narrow panels of the calf relieve the severity of the wrap. A black felt toque trimmed in white camellias, black slippers and white hose complete the ensemble.

CONTAGIOUS CASES 17 DURING OCTOBER

Ten Scarlet Fever Reports Turned in to City Board of Heatlh

Seventeen cases of contagious diseases were reported to the city health department during October, according to the report for the month submitted by Health Commissioner W. J. Weber at the meeting of the Marion Board of Health held in the office of the city health department, yesterday afternoon.

Included in the 17 cases were 10 scarlet fever, two diphtheria and one each of tuberculosis, chickenpox, smallpox, infantile paralysis and measles. The health commissioner also reported that he had visited all of the grade schools during the month to ascertain absences on account of illness, and found conditions very satisfactory with the exception of the first grade at Glenwood, where there were many cases of whooping cough.

Between 25 and 35 per cent of all children in schools are undernourished, according to Dr. R. L. Carlton, health commissioner of Winston Salem, N. C., who was one of the speakers at the fifty-sixth annual meeting of the American Health Association held in Cincinnati last month and excerpts from whose address were given by Health Commissioner Weiser in his report of the convention at the meeting yesterday. Malnutrition, he said, produces three conditions in children. It produces a lack of vitality and ambition, it interferes with the growth of mind and body and it lessens resistance to disease.

Faulty Diet

Faulty diet, faulty food habits, faulty health habits, too much exercise and over fatigue and lack of fresh air and sunshine, all contribute toward malnutrition, Dr. Weiser said.

Whooping cough, according to Dr. Edward S. Godfrey, Jr., director of the Division of Communicable Diseases of the State of New York, who was one of the speakers at the meeting of the American Health Association held at Cincinnati last month, ranks next to diphtheria in New York as a cause of death from acute communicable diseases of childhood. Its death rate has declined less than that of any other children's disease during the last 20 years, Dr. Godfrey said. He also said whooping cough was the least reported and perhaps the most difficult to control of all epidemic diseases.

The health commissioner also read excerpts from an address by Dr. B. Franklin T. Royer, medical director of the National Committee for the Prevention of Blindness, who declared that "in our civilized country there still are 11 states and one territory that do not require use of a prophylactic in the eyes of a new born child." He urged that all states write this requirement into their laws.

Eats Sauerkraut Now, Feels Years Younger

"I couldn't find a thing to eat that would agree with my stomach. Even rice turned sour and caused stomach gas. An insurance man recommended Adlerika. I didn't have much hope of getting any relief for I had tried so many things. But the results I got from even the first bottle surprised me! Now I eat even sauerkraut and sausage without any bad effects. I sleep good and feel 10 years younger. I do my housework with ease again and find great pleasure in other work, too."—Mrs. M. L. Davis.

As gently and naturally as taking a drink of water, Adlerika acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowels, bringing quick relief from gas bloating, intestinal stasis and chronic constipation.

The very FIRST dose of Adlerika often brings out astonishing amounts of old waste matter from the intestinal canal. This poisonous matter may have been in the intestines a long time, causing gas, headache, sleeplessness and many other symptoms. A treatment of just a FEW weeks with Adlerika often brings great permanent improvement in cases of so-called stomach trouble.

What Doctors Say

Dr. H. Louis Shoub, New York, states: "Adlerika, in addition to its intestinal cleansing action, tends to check the growth of intestinal bacteria."

Dr. A. J. Lancaster, a physician of over a quarter century's experience, says: "In the treatment of gastro-intestinal disorders, Adlerika has no equal."

J. E. Puckett, writes: "After using Adlerika, I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated from my system."

Dr. Carl Weschecke, graduate of Heidelberg University, Germany, first perfected Adlerika. It is a compound of the best saline intestinal cleanser known to science with glycerine, buckthorn, cascara and other gas-expelling and detergent elements.

Many physicians recognize Adlerika as the one dependable remedy for gas, intestinal stasis and chronic constipation. Unlike most medicines it acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel.

Even if your bowels move every day, Adlerika may bring out poisonous, gas-forming matter which you would never believe was in your system.

No matter what you have tried for the bowels and stomach, Adlerika will surprise you.

Democrats Will Select 1928 Convention City On Jan. 12

JACKSON DAY DINNER WORRY

To Have It or Not To Have It Troubles Harmony Leaders

Washington, Nov. 10—The Democratic National Committee, which has been hibernating since the great catastrophe in Madison Square Garden, will meet in Washington on Jan. 12 to select the 1928 convention city.

Coincident with this gathering, a movement is now afoot to revive the ancient custom of holding a Jackson Day dinner. The capital will be full of Democrats, in and out of congress, and those presidential aspirants not domiciled here could be invited, according to those who are favorable to the project.

The principal question being debated in Democratic circles is: "Is it safe?"

Past Trouble Recalled

Jackson day dinners in the past have been prolific of trouble. The "feast of oratory and flow of soul" that traditionally goes with a Jacksonian banquet has usually trod heavily on somebody's toes and defeated the primary purpose of the gathering, which is party harmony. Woodrow Wilson once gave his friends nervous prostration by the manner in which he dealt with the late William Jennings Bryan at a Jackson banquet speech. The memory of it still lingers. Incidentally, Mr. Bryan returned the compliment a few years later during Mr. Wilson's presidency. The memory of that still lingers in Democratic minds, too.

Consequently, the party stalwarts in congress are approaching the subject of a pre-convention Jackson dinner with considerable trepidation. They would like to see the dinner held, provided some assurance could be had beforehand that it would not result in more ruffled feeling than already prevail in the party.

Speeches Worry

It has been tentatively proposed that all the Democratic governors of states, some 22, be invited to the dinner, which, of course would also be attended by the national committeemen and the party leaders in congress. William G. McAdoo, now domiciled in the capital and pursuing a lucrative law practice, naturally would be invited.

The mere presence of Gov. Al Smith and Mr. McAdoo at the same banquet table isn't worrying the promoters. It's the question of the speeches. It would hardly be appropriate, it is pointed out, for any Democratic banquet to be held having Governor Smith as a guest without calling upon him to "make a few remarks." The governor is the outstanding candidate for the presidential nomination next year, and probably the most talked of individual Democrat at the present moment in the country.

But if Governor Smith were accorded a place on the program, would not a place also have to be given Mr. McAdoo? He has been a prominent candidate at the last two conventions. The friends of the ex-secretary of the treasury say yes. And if they both spoke, what would happen? That is the dilemma that is now puzzling those who are striving to promote the banquet as a means of restoring the appearance of part solidarity.

Some Other Speaker

One proposal has been put forward which is regarded favorably by the promoters. This would have but one principal speech and it would be delivered by some prominent Democrat who is not identified with either the Smith or McAdoo wings of the party—John W. Davis, the 1921 candidate, or Ex-Gov. James M. Cox, the 1920 candidate. The keynote of that speech would be peace and harmony, with both Governor Smith and Mr. McAdoo and their friends presumably leading the applause from behind the coffee cups.

Of course, both Governor Smith and Mr. McAdoo might decide not to attend. That would make things easier, but it would detract a whole lot from the importance and significance of the occasion.

A definite decision whether to stage the banquet will be reached soon after congress convenes early next month, bringing to Washington some 47 Democratic senators and some 200 Democratic members of the house. A consensus of opinion is desired by those promoting the idea.

Varicose Veins

Simple Home Treatment That Is Giving Amazing Results

The world progresses. Today ailments that took weeks to cure can now be ended in a few days. If you have varicose veins or bunches you can start today to bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moon's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning as directed to the enlarged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating, and only a little is required.

After a few days' treatment the veins will begin to grow smaller and by regular use will soon reduce to normal.

People who want to reduce varicose veins, or get rid of running sores and ulcers, should not hesitate to get a bottle at once. It is so powerful that a small bottle lasts a long time. Any pharmacy can supply you. All druggists sell lots of it.—Adv.

OUTDOOR STLYES FOR NEW SEASON ARE UNUSUALLY SMART

Crowds Of People Throng Sykodoner Offices Daily

"I have been partially deaf since I was a child, that is since I was nine years old. I am now thirty. About five years ago I underwent a very painful and dangerous operation for mastoids, which merely increased my deafness. I became totally deaf in the left ear, though I could understand direct conversation with the other.

"About two months ago, I became worse and pain began in the top of my head. It became so pronounced that I could hardly stand it. Doctors recommended another operation which I considered a last resort. I felt I would rather die than undergo another.

"Then a friend of mine told me about this and I went to the offices to obtain more information and the free treatments. I tried to believe that it would help me, but I could not see how. After the third treatment the pain stopped in my head and I felt better.

"I now have been taking treatments for about two weeks, one each day, and my hearing has been restored to my left ear to such an extent that I can hear ordinary conversation; and my eyes which had become weak and felt as though they were weighted, were relieved of heaviness. My sight is much better.

"I cannot say too much for what it has done for me, and can sincerely recommend the treatments to anyone suffering with eye trouble or deafness." Mrs. George Wilson.

It sounds like a fairy story, but dear friends, it is true—almost miraculously so. No less than eighty-four different diseases have responded to the Sykodoner treatment. So why hesitate any longer? Hoping and wishing for health doesn't bring it and gets you nowhere. Every day you delay makes your case all the more difficult. Let the Sykodoner show you the "Short Road To Health."

Do not neglect this opportunity to learn for yourself how marvelous is this new road to health. If unable to call, just write.

A delightful free demonstration, either here in our office, or in the comforts of your own home if you phone 4116.

Meditations OF A Married Woman

BY HELEN ROWLAND

Who's Whose in Matrimony

ALL these lightning marriages and hair-trigger divorces out in Hollywood and everywhere else, are beginning to make my head swim!

* * *

Guessing "Who's Whose in Matrimony" is becoming the great national game. It exhausts all your ingenuity and imagination just to get a crowd together for a party.

* * *

You plan a cozy little gathering of congenial married couples a week ahead and by the time it is to come off, you have to shuffle all the place cards because half the husbands and wives are separated and engaged to somebody else.

* * *

An actress files a suit for divorce: and before the slow old courts can get around to the case, she has broken her engagement to the "other man" and is trotting around with Hubby again and talking of re-marrying him.

* * *

That's what gets us all mixed up—this fad for RE-MARRYING your last season's husband or your last week's wife!

* * *

Apparently there is nothing like separating two people for a little while to hold them together for life.

* * *

Take away the microscope of domestic propinquity and the powerful and cruel lens of breakfast-table proximity and behold, they can't see the flaws in each other any more! All they can see is the old romantic halo that dazzled them in the first place. All they needed was a little perspective on each other!

* * *

It must be WONDERFUL! It must be a sweet and satisfying sensation to re-marry your ex-husband: All the thrills of a honeymoon—and none of the shocks, surprises and disappointments, at the discovery that you have married a human being instead of an angel!

* * *

You know just what to feed him in order to keep him in a good humor, just where he flings his shoes and his cigaret stumps, just how to avoid getting on his nerves, just how many times you will have to call him before he will get up mornings, just how much or how little it means when he glances at another woman, just how long he will keep you waiting and just how to dodge an argument or forestall a scrap.

corn, ice-cream sodas, rocking chairs, and chewing-gum slot machines, still there!

* * *

It must be worth the price of the divorce just to get back together again and find that love isn't dead—and that he or she is the ONE person in all the world that you want!—Copyright, 1927, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

AMUSEMENT PEOPLE FIGHT TO KILL TAX

Special Assessments Declared Unnecessary; Tobacco Men Protest Burden

Washington, Nov. 10—A concerted drive for repeal of the leftover war "nuisance" taxes was launched before the house ways and means committee today by representatives of theatrical, motion picture, baseball, circus, tobacco and other interests.

The special taxes on amusement admissions and club dues were labelled as unnecessary with the federal treasury full and running over, while the tobacco industry spokesmen protested against the heavy burden which consumers bear as a result of the great drive to raise war revenues.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has urged retention of these taxes, on the ground that an 18,000,000,000 war debt still hangs over the country, and because they are "good taxes."

Apparently deciding not to contest Mellon's statement that the 10 per cent tax on $40 ringside seats at the Tunney-Dempsey fight as an "ideal tax," the famous fight promoter, "Tex" Rickard, did not ask to be included among the witnesses.

Although the issue of repeal of the federal inheritance tax was laid aside, committee members declared that the investigation into the lobby which is urging repeal was not ended.

SUIT FOR $10,000 IS BEING HEARD HERE

Action Grows Out of Accidental Shooting of Girl by Brother-in-Law

Suit for $10,000 brought by Miss Elsie Jones against her brother-in-law, Bert Rudebaugh, in which the plaintiff asks judgment for $10,000 for injuries received in an accidental shooting at the Rudebaugh home, 571 N. Greenwood-st, is being tried before a jury in the court of common pleas today.

Miss Jones was wounded by a shot fired by Rudebaugh on the night of Feb. 23, 1925, when he mistook her for a burglar, according to accounts of the accident. She was residing at the Rudebaugh home at that time.

The plaintiff bases her suit for damages on the claim that had Rudebaugh exercised proper care and caution, the shooting would not have occurred. She alleges that a light was burning near the scene of the accident, providing sufficient illumination for her to be recognized by her brother-in-law.

Used Shotgun

The shooting occurred about midnight. Miss Jones had been entertaining company downstairs and was starting up the steps to retire when her brother-in-law appeared in the up-stairs hallway and fired on her with a shotgun, according to reports of the incident. The shot struck Miss Jones in the side of her body, inflicting a wound which kept her in the hospital under treatment or three weeks.

The law firm of Wiedemann & Patton represented Miss Jones in the trial today and Donithen & Donithen were attorneys for the defendant.

Given $400

Judgment for $400 was given the plaintiff in the damage suit of Charles Mosier against Hilton Lattue, which was tried before a jury in the court of common pleas, yesterday. The suit was brought on the boy's behalf by his father, Frank Mosier. The petition asked for damages and compensation amounting to $5,301.52.

The verdict was returned by the jury late yesterday afternoon after three hours' deliberation.

Fred W. Warner was attorney for the plaintiff and W. P. Moloney represented the defendant.

She asserts that he has threatened to kill her should she file suit for divorce and she asks the court to restrain him from molesting her.

Her petition, filed through her attorney, J. H. Eymon, asks for divorce, alimony and custody of the children.

Seeks Reduction

Reduction of an assessment levied against her property on Patterson-st for paving of the thoroughfare is sought by Vera Robinson in a suit brought in the court of common pleas against James E. Messenger, county treasurer, Earl E. Thomas, county auditor, and the city of Marion.

Treasured Flag To Occupy Honor Place At Services

OCCUPYING a place of honor at the memorial services to be conducted by the Ohio Council of Republican Women Friday at the tomb of President Harding will be the large flag which has graced memorial services for Presidents Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley and Harding and a brief talk on its history will be given by Attorney W. N. Harder of this city.

The flag, which will be brought here by members of the organization, is the property of Donald H. Fisher, 1691 N High-st, Columbus, and boasts of a service record as honorable as that of the oldest veteran. It was given to David Nevans Murray, in 1864, by admiring persons in congress because of his service, and has been handed down for four generations going to the oldest Republican man in each family. Mr. Murray, who was too old to fight, gave two sons to the service and did his bit by manufacturing cannonballs at his foundry at Portsmouth.

The flag is 22 feet long and nine feet wide. It has 36 stars, the number of states in the union 1864, the year it was made.

SPOKEN DRAMA NEAR END, ASSERTS BRADY

No Industry Has Suffered So Much Since War, He Adds

Washington, Nov. 10—The spoken drama is fast dwindling to extinction in America, helped along by continuation of war taxes, spokesmen for the theatrical industry told the house ways and means committee today.

"There is no industry which has suffered so greatly in this country since the war and which has come so near extinction," said William A. Brady, famous producer.

Brady attributed the decline of the theater to newer amusements, including the movies, radio, boxing, and baseball.

"The legitimate theater is rapidly being limited to the Atlantic seaboard," said Brady. "In the great midwestern territory bounded by Louisville, Omaha, Minneapolis and Pittsburgh it is almost impossible for any production except a sensational, well-advertised show to succeed. In many states the drama has entirely disappeared."

LIMIT JURISDICTION OF JUSTICE--BENDER

Opponent of Marshall Bill Demands Right of Trial by Jury

Cleveland, Nov. 10—Senator George H. Bender, president of the Constitutional Law Enforcement League of Ohio, and who led the successful fight against the Marshall Bill, today made known his views on proposed inferior court legislation. Senator Bender said:

"Before the election, I made the statement that no subsequent legislation as a substitute for the Marshall Bill will be permitted to stand in Ohio unless it provides for the right of trial by jury and for limitation of the jurisdiction of inferior trial judges to the districts for which they are elected. That statement I now repeat for the benefit of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League and any other group which may be interested.

"The overwhelming rebuff suffered by the league is of its own creation. It would have been easy for the league to have avoided the referendum by recognition of these principles, and by taking the graft out of the remedial legislation. The league refused. It has brought into existence a new force in Ohio. The humble men and women are weary of being trampled upon. These people who have tasted freedom will not yield again to bondage.

"If legislation is necessary at this time, let the people's rights be safeguarded by jury trial and by holding inferior courts down to the districts for which trial magistrates were elected. If we demand less, we should betray the people of Ohio who have stood by us in this fight."

1000 EGGS IN EVERY HEN

If You Keep Chickens
CUT THIS OUT

"The great trouble with the poultry business has always been that the laying life of a hen was too short," says Henry Trafford, International Poultry Expert and Breeder, for nearly eighteen years Editor of Poultry Success.

The average pullet lays 150 eggs. If kept the second year, she may lay 100 more. Then she goes to market. Yet, it has been scientifically established that every pullet is born or hatched with over one thousand miants egg germs in her system—and will lay them on a highly profitable basis over a period of four to six years' time if given proper care.

How to work to get 1,000 eggs from every hen; how to get pullets laying early; how to make the old hens lay like pullets; how to keep up heavy egg production all through cold winter months when eggs are highest; triple egg production; make slacker hens hustle. These and many other money making poultry secrets are contained in Mr. Trafford's "1,000 EGG HEN" system of poultry raising, one copy of which will be sent absolutely free to any reader of this paper who keeps six hens or more. Eggs should go to top notch prices this winter. This means big profit to the poultry keeper who gets the eggs. Mr. Trafford tells how. If you keep chickens and want them to make money for you, cut out this ad and send it with your name and address to Henry Trafford, Suite 779-C, Herald Bldg., Binghampton, N. Y., and a free copy of "The 1,000 EGG HEN" will be sent by return mail.—Adv.

TWO MAJOR PLANS IN FLOOD CONTRO

One Calls for Diversion Channel and Other for Huge Reservoirs

Washington, Nov. 10—A [illegible] difference of opinion among [illegible] of the Mississippi Valley as to [illegible] of preventing future floods [illegible] loped today in the hearings [illegible] house flood control committee.

Two major plans—one the [illegible] of a diversion channel nearly [illegible] long, and the other the construction [illegible] huge reservoirs to be filled by [illegible] waters in the spring—both [illegible] strong followings.

The reservoir syste [illegible] sponsored by Sen. Elmer Thomas, Democrat of Oklahoma, supported by Representative Swank, Democrat, [illegible] Howard, Democrat of the Oklahoma house delegation.

Construction of reservoirs at strategic points in the valley and [illegible] states, as far north as Montana, would make possible the irrigation of hundreds of thousands of acres of semi-arid [illegible] and solve the problem of the [illegible] halting the ravages of the Mississippi, Thomas asserted.

Dope on Three Big Grid Games Reversed During Week

Loss of Caldwell Makes Eli Under Dog With Tiger; Rockne, Irish Fear Cadets

Unbeaten Pittsburgh Outfit Plays Scoreless Tie with W. and J. While Nebraska Rolls Up 47 Points; Pitt and Cornhuskers Play Saturday

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—Psychology, according to Webster, is the "science of the human mind or soul and its activities and capacities," which, as everybody knows, is a lot of gum arabic. Psychology is the assistant line and backfield coach under Knute Rockne at Notre Dame and Bill Roper at Princeton and the thing that makes a bum out of a football expert or a football expert out of a bum or both. It figures to have an abiding effect on three of the stand-out games on Saturday's schedule.

The games in question are those involving Notre Dame and the Army at the Yankee Stadium, Pittsburgh and Nebraska at Pittsburgh and Yale and Princeton at New Haven. I might even include the Chicago-Illinois game at Urbana, for Stagg dearly loves to swing one from the shoe laces on the Illini.

Reverses Itself

The funny thing about those first three games is that a week ago psychology would have reversed the bets he is due to lay on Saturday. A week ago, he would have said that Princeton was in the moral position to beat Yale; that the Army was the short end good thing against Notre Dame and that the undefeated Pittsburgh team was due to pick up, perhaps unexpectedly, a live one in Nebraska. But today, psychology was turned on those favored ones and is riding with the other fellow.

Yale, for example, has apparently lost Caldwell four days before the big game with the Tigers. This means a psychological gain and a physical loss, the latter being a decidedly poor trade, by the way. Caldwell not only was the only triple-threat man in the outfit but the best goal kicker in the squad and personally I never heard of psychology doing either with any degree of proficiency.

Yet, the thing isn't a dead loss, for Princeton was in the position Roper wants for the good, old underdog harangue of the dressing room. He can't very well do it now which will mean more to this football game than a lot of things the players may do or may not do on the field. So much for that.

Rockne Fears Army

Next, we may consider the Army-Notre Dame game. A week ago, Rockne said he feared the Cadets more than Minnesota or Southern California and at that time he may have been right. The Army, having taken one on the profile from Yale, had subsequently scored more than eighty points on two fairly strong opponents and was set for Notre Dame.

But now Notre Dame is set for the Army, which plays the piece on the other side of the record. If the Irish had beaten Minnesota last week-end, it is doubtful whether Rockne would have been able to convince them that they were taking on something live in an outfit that had lost to Yale, which lost to Georgia and so forth. But Notre Dame didn't beat Minnesota. It got a mere tie and possibly was glad to get it. Also it gave an exhibition of fumbling that probably sent Rockne into a non-stop oration, lasting from Monday to Saturday. What I am trying to intimate very strongly is that I think Notre Dame will be sent out there on Saturday with psychology fairly bursting from its shoulder pads.

As for Pitt and Nebraska, the latter looked like a fine "hunch" bet before last Saturday but the returns from that afternoon's work left the nut with a fallen arch. For Pitt put in the day's scoring exactly no points on W. and J. While Nebraska was running up 47 on Kansas, leaving Pittsburgh with no alternative but to believe that it is in for a somewhat violent afternoon on Saturday. It is difficult to get a football team in just that frame of mind but once you do it it is hard to beat.

If Pitt really sends out a re-awakened team here, it will be one of the great games of the year, with any man's choice as good as mine.

Tunney Breaks All Precedents In Decision To Fight Three Times

SPLIT WITH RICKARD PROBABLE; TEX SAYS "IT'S ALL A FAKE"

Champ Plans To Fight in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—In the wilds of the Adriandacks Gene Tunney picked up a telephone and delivered a message that created a genuine sensation in boxing circles today.

The heavyweight champion's startling declaration that he hopes to defend his title three times next year and his implied threat of breaking away from Tex Rickard was received here with amazement as a hitherto unsuspected break between Gene and the producer of million dollar purses.

Tex Indignant

Indignant incredulity was expressed by Rickard when the statement was first relayed to him at Madison Square Garden.

"I don't believe it," fumed Tex.

And today he was still saying it.

Nevertheless and notwithstanding Tex's disbelief Tunney is planning to force a fulfillment of his contract with Rickard by the end of May and then accept one or two other matches under other promotion in other cities.

The champion is considering four offers. One, he says, is from New York interests that will top the guarantee in his contract with Rickard. Another is for a fight in Chicago and still another is a Philadelphia proposition. A Pacific Coast promoter has also entered the bidding.

"I don't believe it," reiterated Rickard last night at the Garden. "Somebody must be kidding. I don't believe Tunney said any such thing. It must have been a practical joker on the wire.

"Why I can stop Tunney in an hour if he tries to fight for anybody else before Oct. 1, 1928. There are no 'ifs' or 'ands' or 'buts' in his contract with me. All I have to do is put up my guarantees when they are due and tell Gene who, when and where he is to fight."

GENE DIDNT DO ALL HIS FIGHTING IN THE RING. HE SERVED WITH THE MARINES DURING THE WAR
IF I TRY CONCLUSIONS I'LL BE THE END OF ME, EH, GENE?

MAN LIKES THE HAT.
DONT FORGET! TUNNEY ALSO DID SOME SOCKING. GENE JUST PUT OVER A FAST ONE AND JACK FELL FOR IT.

Even when confronted with indisputable proofs that Tunney really had been incommunication with authorized agents here Tex was not convinced.

"Looks to me like somebody is trying to knock down Madison Square Garden stock."

From other sources than Tunney direct but in close touch with the situation comes the story that the champion is highly displeased with the publicity Jack Dempsey has received since the Chicago engagement and his close association with Rickard.

Gene "Steamed Up"

Jack Kearns broadcasts the statement that Rickard is virtually Dempsey's manager. That impression is said to annoy Tunney extremely. Another sore spot is the films of the Chicago fight which Tunney's friends allege were "doctored" to favor Dempsey.

Rickard mets all these inuendos with strong denials.

"I never managed a fighter or took a cent from one," he said as he sat chewing on his cigar. "That's just some Kearns' mud throwing. All I ever got from Dempsey was thanks and a couple of gift canes."

Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, says he knows nothing of any changes in Gene's plans, but admitted he had the champion on the telephone yesterday and that he seemd to be "steamed up" against Rickard.

TIGERS WANT ELI TO ALLOW TRIPLE THREAT MAN TO PLAY

Coach Roper Would Rather Have Him in Than Out, He Says

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 10—Yale, today is reconsidering its hasty and rash action of Tuesday night in declaring Bruce Caldwell, its star halfback, from the varsity football team as an ineligible. In the event Caldwell has been ordered reinstated, to turn out for practice today.

Word from Princeton published here declares that Yale will be harder to beat without Caldwell than with him and with the Princeton faculty committee voluntarily petitioning Yale to waive in this particular ineligibility "to get us this once," the Yale athletic committee was in session on the matter today.

Caldwell was ruled off the team when it was disclosed he had played freshman football at another college before entering Yale.

The announcement of his eastern trip was made after Mullen had talked with Tunney's manager over long distance. Mullen said he was assured the heavyweight champion is not under contract to Rickard and can do business with Jim Mullen as a free agent.

Mullen declared that soon after the recent Tunney-Dempsey fight here, the champion promised to fight for the local promoter in Chicago next summer.

CITY HEALTH NURSE GIVES RESIGNATION

Mrs. Mary Catherrine Hane To End Three-Year Service Dec. 1

Giving as the reason, a desire to give up the work in order that she might be able to spend more time at home Mrs. Mary Catherine Hane for the past three years employed as a health nurse, tendered her resignation at the meeting of the Board of Health held in the office of the city health department in the City Hall yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Hane, who was the first nurse to be employed by the board of health as a city nurse, is held in high regard because of her efficiency, and regret was expressed by Mayor Hazen, president of the board and by several of the members at her leaving. Her resignation will take effect on Dec. 1.

A number of applications for the position were in the hands of the board from nurses in some of the surrounding cities as well as from Philadelphia and Cleveland. It was voted by the Board, however, to employ Miss Mabel Hastings, a nurse of this city, at a salary of $125 a month until the first of the year when, if satisfactory, her salary will be increased to $150 a month.

Miss Hastings, who will work out of the office of the city health department in city hall, will take up her duties on Nov. 15, in order that she might familiarize herself with the work before Mrs. Hane's' resignation becomes effective.

Out of 161 children examined at the Mark-st school, according to her report for the month of October submitted by Mrs. Hane to the board, yesterday, 101 were found to have enlarged tonsils, 87 had decayed teeth, 48 were underweight, 28 were suffering from defective vision.

The retiring nurse also reported that she had made 130 calls during the month, 54 of which were maternity cases, three pre-natal, 20 medical, 19 surgical, 11 orthopedic, four mental, four dental, four welfare, four tuberculosis. Of the 48 patients called on, 15 were under one year of age, three from one to six, 12 from six to 16 and 20 adults.

TOLEDO WOMAN OVERCOMES BAD CASE OF NERVES

Was Unable To Sleep Soundly and Had Poor Appetite

A bad case of nerves that broke her rest, took away her appetite and nearly undermined her health is described by Mrs. Cornelia Bartlett, 2002 Mulberry St., Toledo. She also tells how she eventually obtained complete relief through the use of Redwood's Teepee Herb Tonic.

REDWOOD

Mrs. Bartlett says, "No one can appreciate what Redwood's Teepee Herb Tonic will do for them until they try it. At the time I started to take it I was on the verge of nervous collapse. I couldn't sleep soundly and no food tempted my appetite.

"I took several tonics but didn't improve at all. Finally I started to take Redwood's. I didn't notice any change until about the fourth day. Then things began to look brighter to me. Before the week was over I was eating fairly good and I slept more soundly.

"I started on my second bottle and by that time my nerves were stronger. By the time I had finished my second bottle my appetite was splendid and my nerves as good as they could be.

"Since that time I have rapidly gained strength until now I am in perfect health. I advised everybody who feels as I did to try Redwood's Teepee Tonic."

Redwood's Teepee Herb Tonic is recommended and sold in Marion by Bradley's, Heuney & Cooper's, Wm. M. Stump, Bartlett's and all drug stores; Richwood, H. D. Kyle and Lower's Drug Stores.—Adv.

THE GUMPS — SO BIG — BY SIDNEY SMITH

NDY HAS HIRED A BIG HUSKY DARE DEVIL GIANT AS HIS PERSONAL GUARD- WITH 89 INCHES OF BONE AND SINEW - 365 LBS OF HARDENED MUSCLE— ALL CONVERTED INTO A HUMAN DYNAMO GENERATING RECKLESS COURAGE AND ENDURANCE - AT HIS BECK AND CALL ANDY FEELS SAFE ENOUGH TO TEAR UP HIS ACCIDENT INSURANCE —
YOU SHOULD SEE THIS GUARD I HIRED— HE LOOKS AS TALL AS THE WASHINGTON MONUMENT— AND AS WIDE AS THE PACIFIC OCEAN— IF I EVER HAVE TO FIRE HIM— I'LL CALL OUT THE UNITED STATES ARMY AND LET GENERAL PERSHING HAND HIM THE MESSAGE—
HE MUST BE A GIANT
YOU HAVE TO LOOK AT HIM TWICE TO SEE HOW BIG HE IS— HE'LL GO THROUGH A MOB AS EASY AS A STEAM ROLLER GOING OVER A STACK OF PANCAKES-
WELL BE AS CAREFUL AS POSSIBLE WHEN YOU VENTURE OUT— IT MAKES MY BLOOD RUN COLD TO THINK WHAT MIGHT HAPPEN IF YOU FELL INTO THE HANDS OF THAT MONEY MAD MOB-
A MOB IS POWERFUL — SO IS NIAGARA FALLS— BUT ONE MAN HAD THE BRAINS TO HARNESS THE FALLS— AND USE ITS VAST POWER TO SHARPEN LEAD PENCILS— THE NEXT TIME I MEET A MOB I'LL DEMONSTRATE THE POWER OF MIND OVER MOBSTERS— I'LL HAVE THEM EATING OUT OF MY HAND LIKE A FLOCK OF TRAINED PIGEONS-
SIDNEY SMITH

JUST KIDS — BY AD CARTER

IT'S TIME FOR MY APPLE DUMPLING TO GO UPSTAIRS AND GARGLE HIS THROAT?
YOUNG MAN I DON'T HEAR ANY GARGLE?
HOW DO YOU EXPECT TO GET OVER A SORE THROAT GARGLING THAT WAY? HOLD YOUR HEAD WAY BACK
GOSH! MOM I'M AFEARED I'LL DROWN'D!

GOOD! THEY'VE MADE UP! BETTY'S GOING BACK HOME WITH HER HUSBAND! MAYBE IT'S A GOOD THING THEY PARTED FOR A FEW WEEKS. THEY'RE BOTH SO HAPPY TO BE TOGETHER AGAIN!
YEP! THEYRE JUST LIKE TWO HONEYMOONERS AGAIN! THEYRE COOING LIKE A COUPLE OF TURTLE-DOVES! IF THEY EVER QUARREL AGAIN IT'LL BE BECAUSE OF ARGUING ABOUT WHICH ONE LOVES THE OTHER THE MOST!

Dullness, Irregularity Prevails in Stock Market

STEEL ORDERS SHOW INCREASE

Favored Specialties Advance in Face of Professional Opposition

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks steady; industrial stocks, irregular; domestic bonds, steady; foreign bonds irregular; call money 3 1-2 per cent; grain, irregular; copper firm; oil reactionary; rubber steady; sugar steady; pig iron steady; foreign exchange steady.

New York, Nov. 10—Dullness and irregularity prevailed in the stock market today. Only a few of the favored specialties were strong enough to advance in the face of continued professional opposition, and the market, adopted a waiting attitude in the absence of special developments in industry and trade.

The steel corporation reported an increase of 192,927 tons in its October forward tonnage, about twice as much as had been looking for, but the increase was attributed in some degree to the lower rate of operation of its plants, thus permitting the piling up of orders. At any rate, the gain in tonnage was regarded as a favorable sign post for the immediate future of the industry in general, considered in connection with the increasing demand for railroad steel and the probable expanding requirements of the motor manufacturing industry.

Woolworth Leads

Leaders in today's almost inconsequential advance included the tobacco stocks, the mercantile or "store" stocks, the high-priced speculative favorites, the can manufacturing stocks and the better grade of dividend industrials. From a sluggish start, United States Steel common gradually developed a little headway, and rose 2 points to above 136. American Tobacco reached 185 in its spectacular forward move, and Woolworth gained 2 points in its leadership of the mercantile shares.

Pools in a few of the cheap specialties and oils made a very aggressive effort to distribute the stocks they have been ineffectually churning around for the past few days, but it is doubtful if they were any more successful today than they were in previous sessions of the week.

Chicago, Nov. 10—A dull and draggy market prevailed in the wheat trade yesterday, with prices moderately lower at the finish. There were supporting orders in the market around the low prices, but no buying of an aggressive type. Traders in general were disposed to be cautious pending publication of crop reports to be issued in the near future, the news of the day furnishing nothing to stimulate new interest.

Corn also showed a net decline with volume of trade small. Interest was largely local in character with general inclination to hold off until after the crop figures are published today. There was a cessation of activity in the oats market with slight price depreciation. Rye was independently firm.

Selling is Local

Selling pressure came from local traders who are anticipating a bearish Canadian crop estimate on Friday and are impressed by the continued inactive export trade. Some stop-loss orders were uncovered on the first break but the general interest was small. Commission houses had orders in to buy December wheat at $1.25, although not a great deal changed hands at that figure. The May wheat was relatively strong and at one time sold at 93½c premium over December price. Private wire houses sold a little May on the advance.

There were private reports here of great damage to Argentine wheat in the province of Cordoba but the trade generally did not regard them seriously. Weather in Argentine was reported as favorable with Buenos Aires wheat lower much of the day.

Corn Trade Slow

Following a firmer opening the corn market reacted and ruled lower during the balance of the session. Local selling carried prices down, together with moderate offerings from several of the commission houses. Some of the selling was in way of evening up positions in the market pending issuance of the government crop estimate, due this afternoon.

There was some outside buying of March and May corn. Sentiment is moderately bullish on the theory that husking returns will not uphold preliminary estimates of the crop and that shipping demand for cash corn will become active when the new crop commences to move in volume.

Weather over the belt was unsettled and this will curtail harvest work.

Oats trade was lighter and scattered selling affected prices. There was some local buying of May oats, while cash interests took December and sold May at 2 7-8 cents difference. Movement of oats is light and cash trade moderate.

Rye offerings were limited and moderate buying was induced by bullish reports from Duluth regarding stocks and export demand. Export sales of 20,000 bu. rye were reported at the seaboard.
